What is Children's Neighbourhoods Scotland?

CNS is an approach to create better lives for children and young people living in a neighbourhood

1. Developmental activity:

- ✧ Create even more effectiveness and coherence within the neighbourhood that makes a difference to outcomes for children and young people. This is 'collective impact'
- ✧ Broker, facilitate and support partnership and collaborative action between assets including people, organisations and services across a neighbourhood- A 'backbone support organisation'

2. Research and evaluation activity:

- ✧ Draw on external research to inform our decision-making
- ✧ Undertake our own participatory research to identify key priorities for action within the neighbourhood
- ✧ Assess activity to inform our work and monitor and evaluate impact of CNS

Harnessing collaborative action for Collective Impact

Children's

Through our collaborative work with partners and continuous research and evaluation we will create:

Making it happen: Collective Impact

Backbone support organisation:

A separate organization is required to provide the administrative, logistical, and coordinating support necessary to create and sustain a successful partnership.

Common agenda:

All members of the collaborative need a shared understanding of the issue and an agreed approach to tackling it.

Shared data and accountability systems:

For alignment and accountability purposes, those involved need to have common indicators of success.

Mutually reinforcing agendas and activities:

Action needs to be co-ordinated to avoid overlap and gaps.

Clear and consistent communication:

In order to build relationships and trust, establish common objectives, and build shared purpose and a guiding coalition.
